Selection of the location of Sheppard, Morgan & Schubel from among six applicants for city MFT engineer was made by a nine-member special commission of council members, G. H. Sternberg, chairman. The commission said each firm was rated and SMS received 2½ times more than the others.

City Engineering Commission

The firm will provide the same services we received from the Johnston firm last year and the cost will be 2½ less," Sternberg said. He said Johnston used the services of the Illinois Society of Engineers while SMS proposes the lower and instead of a 75% inspection fee that had been charged by Johnston, will do the work for 25%.

A resolution is to be prepared for employment of the firm for the next two years, Sternberg said. It would be conceivable time before the commission would recommend a city engineer since applications still are being submitted.

The Special Pollution Study committee, headed by Alderman Moerlein, has been meeting with officials of the Granite City Army Depot. "The location of the treatment plant on the depot at the site requested by the city is seen being a question of rent has been discussed," Moerlein said.

He explained the city has offered to treat depot sewage in exchange for rent, but the District Engineers insist on a rental charge. "We have had this out in the next few days," Moerlein said. "We have no intention of paying rent and boosters will be asked to pay the charge to householders." The monthly fees have not yet been set.

Workmen's compensation insurance for city employees and the execution of policemen and firemen is to be secured from the Michigan Co. for $3108 annual premium. A 15% dividend reducing the cost to $2642. Other bids were $2938 and $3500.

Maroons Hold Off Warriors 6-5 To Dim GC Shot At First Place

Coach Joe Fedora won a battle but his Granite City Warriors lost their war yesterday at Belleville and dimmed their chances of winning the Southwestern Conference baseball title.

The host Maroons took a 6-3 decision to lower the Warriors' league record to 3-4. The two were scheduled to visit the first-place Edwardsville Tigers (5-0) this afternoon but the morning game was called off.

Fedora's victory came in the sixth inning during a dispute on Warrior shortstop Larry Dilard. Umpire Mike Huggins, thinking the count was 3-and-2, called Dilard out on a third strike.

Granite City, realizing something amiss, protested that the previous pitch was ball four. When Huggins upheld the call, the base instead of sitting on the bench.

Sure Dilard had three strikes. Fedora argued that a fourth ball had been called and that came first.

Dillard to First
Fedora finally convinced Huggins and fellow umpire Jim Prather that Dilard deserved first base. But then Al "Boots" Budde, the Belleville coach, argued that under the rules the error should have been called before the next pitch. Dilard stayed on first and Budde protested the game.

Madison Loses To Highland 9-2

Dan Yama gave up only four hits to Madison's Trojans yesterday as the Highland Bulldogs took a 9-2 Midwestern Conference baseball decision at Highland.

The loss dropped Madison to 1-4 and fifth place in the standings. Highland is second with a 4-2 record.

The Trojans are scheduled to be hosts to Beloit Civic Memorial this afternoon but Coach Eddie Cramer said late this morning that a walk-off made the contest doubtful.

Highland broke loose for a 5-0 lead in the second, when four hits, including a triple by Marcus Klaus and three Madison errors opened the scoring.

Belleville Squad Ends Long Strike By GC Tennis Team

Granite City's six-match winning streak of high school tennis ended yesterday at Belleville, where the host school took a 5-0 decision.

The Warriors were hampered by the absence of No. 2 singles man Wayne Hancock, who is on a trip to New York. On Monday, the Warriors won the final two duals and defeated Alton 3-2.

The results:

SINGLES—Ron Sekirk A over Rusty Tobsen, 6-2, 6-3; Dick Shift A over Neil Wolfe, 1-6, 9-7, 7-5; Drew Kornfeld G over Hugh Burroughs, 6-3, 6-2.

Expert in English To Lecture at SWIU

Prof. Harold Orton of Leeds University will lecture on English dialects at the two Southwestern Illinois University campuses next Wednesday.

Former faculty of arts and board of faculties chairman at Leeds University, Orton is co-author of the book, Survey of English Dialects.

He will lecture at the SWIU center in East St. Louis at 2 p.m. and at the university's Alton science auditorium at 8:15 p.m., using slides and tape recordings. The evening lecture is open to the public.

Orton's book on English dialects is the first systematic approach to cataloguing the features of the English dialects, according to SWIU professor Gordon Wood, who helped bring the British professor here.

Wood, Princeton University Ph.D., will direct a workshop in English at the SWIU center in East St. Louis this summer as listed by SWIU professor Dr. Van Syo, former team leader on the University of Michigan's Southeast Asian English project in southeast Asia.

$23,759 MFT Funds
Credited to 3 Cities

Motor fuel tax collection for Illinois in March amounted to $23,759 for March. It was an increase this month at Springfield. Of the total, $18,200 was allotted to Granite City, $3,116 to Madison and $243 to Venice.

TRY A CLASSIFIED AD—

Farm Family Here Host To S. American Couple

An "adventure in international living" was experienced by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kaseberg, Rural Route One, who played host recently to an Argentine couple currently on a three-month vacation tour of the Western Hemisphere.

Despite some language barrier, the four-day visit was enjoyed by the Kasebergs, who may be tempted to try foreign languages, just as many other Quad-Cityans have done in recent years.

Greatly impressed with this couple, who are Mr. and Mrs. Adolfo Lago Marsino of Chicago, a city of 75,000 population about 100 miles southwest of Buenos Aires, Illinois is beautiful, Mr. Lago Marsino told the Free-Press.

The Argentine farmer and tractor dealer, who is in the mid-30's, has just mastered English, has been around the world by his wife's insistence, known the edge of English and also has utilized gestures. When the women returned from a shopping trip down the road to the most visited local farms, his wife, Elva, recalled the "sign language" and commented, "They must have had a good time, because their sleeves rolled up."

The stay also included visits to neighboring City Steel Co., the downtown auto, music, restaurant and the regional Case Tractor Co. offices, which had arranged the request.

Spanish Interests

Factoring in paying up the visitors with the Kasebergs were numerous similarities. Each couple has a large farm. The Lago Marsinos have a 900-acre farm, compared to the Kasebergs' 1200 acres; and both raise wheat, sorghum, corn and cotton.

Kaseberg, Madison County zoning appeals official, recalled that among the sights which interested Mrs. Lago Marsino were what she called "car ceme-terios" and the fact that corn will eliminate. Autos are not plentiful in Argentina and maintenance costs run high.

The government is stable, but severe inflation prevents his husband from maintaining a

How to control giant foxtail in corn

Atrazine 80W herbicide has set a new standard for weed control on millions of acres of corn... by solving both general weed problems and the difficult control of weeds like giant foxtail. Giant foxtail must be controlled or it takes over.

Simple, effective control

Atrazine gives you a proved plan to use against this tough weed. An Atrazine spray followed by rotary hoeing or shallow cultivation, this supplemental tillage is especially important on heavy clay or high organic soils. Under dry conditions, giant foxtail may germinate rather deep in the soil. So it is important that the Atrazine be worked down into the soil moisture zone where the giant foxtail seedling are located.

Details available

Ask your supplier about application rates for your soil type when you order Atrazine, or write Geigy. Plan to control giant foxtail this easy, effective way: Geigy Agricultural Chemicals, Division of Geigy Chemical Corporation, Saw Mill River Road, Ardsley, N.Y. 10502.

Council Business Spans Wide Variety of Items

A wide assortment of business items have been set for the four-day agenda of the Police committee to be barricaded at the Police station on May 7. The committee is to see bids for repairs, and also possibly talk to the successful new police car bidder—Matthew Chevrolet Co.—about revising the price of the winning bid. One police car windshield was broken and had to be replaced.

Preparing for the operation of the new police cars, the council ordered physical examinations for the two operators to be given at the office of the police at the end of the season. Earlier it had been recommended the drivers wear respirators.

The missing property line monument is at 3192 Jill avenue, where a sidewalk was replaced. The city is to seek engineering services for the replacement.

Safety in Streets

Permit was granted for the 2900 block of Grand avenue to be barricaded May 7 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for presentation of a driving safety education program for high school students.

It was announced that Nameoki school committee's recommendation for electric traffic signals at the Nameoki and St. Elizabeth schools along Pontiac road and other crosswalks would be held in abeyance until the city engineer is named.

In addition, school crosswalk designations are being proposed along Niedringhaus, avenue at Olive and Walnut street, and a one-hour parking zone is proposed for the south side of Niedringhaus avenue east of Walnut street.

Referred to the Police committee was a petition signed by 32 business places.

GIANT FOXTAIL POISONING PROBLEMS ON FARMS

Modern planting practices and tillage tools soils have combined forces to create a giant that's costing farmers in the state $75 million annually. It's giant foxtail, which has been getting much worse in the past few years.

Farmers hill-drop or drill their corn, so cross-cultivation can no longer control giant foxtail in corn.

Few farmers can afford to lose 23 bushels of corn or 11 bushels of soybeans per acre each year. But recent reports show that giant foxtail plants per foot of row can reduce yields that much.

Damages doesn't stop with reduced yields. Agronomists estimate that it costs $5 to $10 per acre to control this pest, once it's established. It's a costly job, but it's unlikely, since a single plant may produce more than 20,000 seeds in a year. Some of these seeds may remain in the soil for years.

The most important time to control foxtail is the first few weeks after planting. Pre-emergence herbicides, early row hoeing and good row cultivation should help to provide early control. Early hilling is effective on no-till seedbeds, but they appear on the surface, while they are still in the white—and timely row cultivation will throw soil into the row and control.

Pre-emergence herbicides attack the seedlings shortly after the seeds germinate. Since weeds between the rows are easily controlled by cultivation, it is usually most economical to apply the pre-emergence herbicide just under the rows in a 14-inch band. That's the area that is hardest to reach with the cultivation.

In fields where giant foxtail is primarily at the ends, there is no need to treat the whole field with pre-emergence. Control in the ends just as in the other areas where the weed has been laid.

450 COUNTY FARMERS

GET ANALYSIS DATA

The 450 Madison County farmers who joined the Illinois Farm Record Book, published by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois in 1963, have found the use of 1963 standards to be in using in the farm business.

After completing his records, a farmer can find the costs and welfare factors in his business and decide whether he might partially change his methods.

Some of the standards for Madison County for 1963 by which a farmer can measure his results: hogs weaned per litter, $73; egg sales per hen, $55; dairy sales per cow, $102; labor costs, $180 to 280; farm grain, farm grain $110; livestock farm $3600; dairy farm, $4320; and machinery costs for a 180-acre farm, $20,000; farm labor, $4100; livestock farm $4380; and dairy farm $6300.

The efficient farmer should equal or exceed the standards, but should not exceed in labor, power and machinery costs.

The crop yield standards are divided into groups according to whether the land is classified as high fertile, average or low fertility. The 1963 standards for the most part are designed to fit the soil fertility needs to the soil fertility needs, as corn, '78, 68 and 58 bush per acre; soybeans, 32, 28 and 24 bush; wheat, 41, 36 and 31 bush; oats, 58, 50 and 42 bush.

Besides giving you accurate information about your farming business to use in making an analysis of your results, Illinois Farm Record Book provides the necessary figures for your income tax return and social security records. Get your book for 1963 at the office.

GC Kiwanis Club Told How Drugs Save Lives

The lives of two million Americans have been saved by the sulfis and antibiotics drugs during the past 10 years. Donald R. Schaefer, a representative of American Cyanamid Co's Lederle Laboratories, told Granite City Kiwanians at their meeting Monday night at the Rose Bowl Restaurant.

Schaefer said to the 16 present, "Research expenditures reached $10,000,000 last year. This is a greater amount than any other industry and it represents nine per cent of sales compared with two per cent for industry in general."

He spoke of rising research and other costs, the price of drugs and prescriptions has risen only 21.4% over the past 12 years. This is a 23.7% increase for the cost of living generally."

Bernard Miller presided and Harry Marshall introduced the guest speaker.
